The EURO-CITY-project is the second exhibition in the series A holi-city and presents an exchange between the internationally known Hungarian-French architect and theoretician Yona Friedman (Paris) and the Dutch architect Rajan V. Ritoe (Delft).

Friedman and Ritoe represent three generations of architects. Friedman explained in an interview to Ritoe, that the process, in which his ideas have been assimilated and transformed by others, is of major importance to his work. In Friedman's view, architecture has to be improvised.

The exhibition shows an "improvised" installation of wire mesh, ties and tape, in combination with Friedman's brand-new sketches about Metropole Europe, but also Ritoe's looped film-clips of the interview in which Friedman's free thinking is explained.

Since 1958 the image of the Ville Spatiale hovering over different cities captivated Friedman's thinking and philosophy of architecture that centers on the needs of residents, and which always conceptualizes architecture as an emancipatory structure. Based on the premises of Ville Spatiale, Friedman's Metropole Europe thematizes the global interconnections and effects of climate, science and technology, transport and other infrastructures. Rajan V. Ritoe – whose work is dedicated to investigating the complexity of urban context in global conditions and situations – offers a commentary on Friedman's ideas and engages in a filmic dialogue with Friedman.

The co-work and site- specific installation EURO CITY opens up a holistic perspective onto the 21st- century metropolis and heralds a new degree of individual responsibility and new levels of communication – and ultimately a new way of life!

The installation is built up with the help of students from Delft Technical University (workshop April 10 -16).

A Happy Talk with Rajan V. Ritoe combined with the film première of Ritoe's documentation about Yona Friedman accompany the exhibition.

The opening reception will take place on Saturday, 17 April 2010 at 4 pm. You and your friends are cordially invited.
